EXECUTIVE SUMMARY REPORT
UNIVERSITY HOUSES RENOVATION
February 27, 2015

What’s New
A lot is happening at University Houses, despite the low temperatures! Painting has begun in zone 1, and well as refinishing of the existing parquet flooring, and installing ceramic tile in the bathrooms. Drywall installation in zone 1 is nearing completion, and will start in zone 2 shortly. In addition, nearly all convectors have been installed, with one zone left to install in the next few weeks. The electricians and plumbers are working diligently to stay ahead of the drywall crew.

The Past Two Weeks
• ADA compliant doors were installed
• Painting started in zone 1
• Building 5 parquet flooring was refinished
• Installation of mechanical louvers started
• French doors were painted

Coming Up in the Weeks Ahead
• Louver installation will continue
• Interior blocking in zone 2
• Drywall, taping, and plastering in zone 2
• Bathroom tile installation in zone 1

Did you know? Parquet flooring was introduced in 1684 as an alternative to marble flooring. Marble required constant washing that led to rotting joists beneath the floor. Parquet is durable, and more resilient to humidity swings than straight hardwood planks.
